

Note on Drawing Partial Plans

A partial plan is a redistricting plan that includes only part of the state, rather than the entire state. For example, a partial plan might include only a few legislative districts instead of all thirty-five.

Your redistricting plan is more likely to be helpful to the Commission if it includes the entire state, because the Commission is obligated to adopt plans for the entire state. However, you may submit a partial plan, and partial plans submitted as amendments to plans under consideration by the Commission might be helpful.
